

Toyama Plant built in a 153,000 m<sup>2</sup> site at Toyama in 1953 produces 360 tons per year of synthetic zeolite, "Zeolum", which is widely used in chemical industry as a desiccant for gases and liquids.

Toyo Soda developed his own new process in 1969 and now is one of the biggest manufacturers in the world.